

SPECIAL ISSUE 2016 Vol. 75- ÉDITION SPÉCIALE 2016 No. 75
Emerging Scholarship – Nouvelles Recherches

CANADIAN REVIEW OF SOCIAL POLICY
REVUE CANADIENNE DE POLITIQUE SOCIALE

---

Articles:

“The Brains of a Nation”: The eugenicist roots of Canada’s mental health field and the building of a white non-disabled nation, by Edward Hon-Sing Wong.

(Re)constructing and (re)habilitating the disabled body: World War One era disability policy and its enduring ramifications, by AJ Withers

“Journey to Freedom Day Act”: The making of the Vietnamese subject in Canada and the erasure of the Vietnam War, by Anh Ngo

Inspection, policing and racism: How municipal by-laws endanger the lives of Chinese sex workers in Toronto, by Elene Lam

Affirmative governmentality and the politics of youth inclusion: A critical analysis of youth voice and engagement in Ontario, by Maria Bernard

Book Review:

“What happened to politics?” (Bob Rae, 2015), by Irena Djukic

Editorial by Anne O’Connell